Fate and Fortune Points

Spend a Fate Point to avoid anything that makes the character completely unplayable (Death, Mutation, Limb Loss, etc)
Characters have a number of Fortune Points equal to their Fate Points each in-game day. Fortune Points may be spent to re-roll a failed test (except 100s), gain 1 extra parry or dodge, add 1 extra 1d10 to Initiative, or gain 1 extra half-action on a turn.

Fortune Points may (with GM approval) also be spent to make minor plot tweaks to help the character, usually bringing to life ideas that start with "Wouldn't it be cool if...?"

Actions

Half Actions

Aim Gain +10 WS or BS on a single attack made in the same turn.

Make one melee or ranged attack. You can only take one Attack or Cast action per round. Attack

Delay your next half action until any time before the next turn. Delay

Opposed WS Test, if you succeed your next attack in the same turn cannot be dodged or parried. Feint Maneuver Opposed WS Test, if you succeed you force the enemy one hex in any direction. You can choose to move 1 hex with them in the same direction or remain where you are.

Move Move up to your Move score in hexes.

Draw or sheathe a weapon, ready a carried item for use. Ready

Stand/Mount Stand up or mount a riding animal.

Full Actions

Charge Attack Charge hexes up to your Move score (at least 2) in a straight line at the target, gain +20 WS.

Defense Stance You cannot take Attack or Cast actions. You gain one extra Parry per round. Lasts until dropped. Dropping Defensive Stance is a free action.

Disengage Break combat without allowing free attacks against you, move up to your Move score.

Double Attack Requires Double Attack talent. In melee, make two attacks against the same target, one with each hand. Offhand attacks suffer the normal -20WS penalty. Or two ranged attacks against the same target as long as your weapon has no reload.

You must run at least 2 hexes in a straight line. Make a Strength test. You leap a number of yards (halve to find Jump/Leap the number of hexes) equal to your Move + Strength Bonus - the degrees of failure on the Strength test. Without the run-up, this distance is halved. May use Performer (Acrobat) instead of Strength.

Run You move up to three times your Move score. Enemies attacking you this round gain +20WS or -20BS.

Variable/Special Actions

Cast Casts a spell. You can only take one Cast or Attack action per round.

Reload Reloads a ranged weapon.

Use Skill You may use a skill. The time required is determined by the GM.

Free Action. Characters are allowed one free Parry per round, as long as they are holding a weapon. Make a WS Parry test after a successful hit against you. If you succeed, the damage against you is reduced by 1d10.

Free Action, Requires Dodge Blow. Agi test to avoid 1 melee attack. Cannot Parry and Dodge same attack. Dodge Disarm Free Action, Requires Disarm. Instead of melee damage make Opposed Agi test, force opponent to drop weapon.

Channeling Half Action, Requires Channeling. Test increase the casting roll of a spell cast that turn by your Magic.

Strike to Injure Free Action, Requires Strike to Injure. Make Melee or Ranged Called Shot (-20), Injure instead of damage. Target makes Toughness test (+10 for each AP on location) or test at Half for 1d10 rounds. Head: Suffocation. Arms:

WS/BS. Body: Actions. Legs: Move. Penalties do not stack.

Free Action, Requires Strike to Stun. Instead of melee or sling damage, make Strength test. Opponent must Strike to Stun make Toughness test (+10 for each AP on head). If they fail, they are stunned for 1d10 rounds.

Free Action. Make Charge or Standard Attack while unarmed. Instead of damage, opponent makes Agi test or Grapple > becomes held. Both you and opponent cannot Parry/Dodge and melee attacks against you both are +20. Opponent may only try to break grapple with Opposed Strength Test. You may only maintain grapple or cause unarmed damage with Opposed Strength test. You may voluntarily end the grapple on any of your turns.
